The Bā ʿAlawī Sāda: A Comprehensive History, Methodology, and Legacy (Part 1: Contents)

2026-10-01 · 2 min read

Table of Contents

Preface

I. Origins: The Migration of Aḥmad ibn ʿIsā al-Muhājir رحمه الله

- Before the migration: Tarīm in the age of the Companions – the Tarīmī tradition
- Independent testimony to the lineage and rank of the Bā ʿAlawī – including Imām Yūsuf al-Nabhānī رحمه الله
- A Millennial scholarly legacy tradition established 1000 years before later reformist currents even existed

II. The Founding of the Ṭarīqah: al-Faqīh al-Muqaddam رحمه الله (574–653H)

III. The Great Imams Across the Centuries

- Further imams of the chain
- Further source for the generation-by-generation chain

IV. Their Methodology (Manhaj): Five States, and the Fusion of Sharīʿah with Ḥaqīqah

V. Explicit Creed and Legal School: Ashʿarī and Māturīdī in Theology, Shāfiʿī in Law

VI. Moderation, and the Explicit Rejection of Extremism

- A formal fatwā-collection statement on the discipline of restraint from takfīr

VII. Mastery of Qur'ān, Ḥadīth, Fiqh, and Kalām

VIII. Piety Without Ostentation: Humility, Self-Criticism, and the Discipline Against Relying on Lineage

IX. Karāmāt and the Discipline Against Seeking Them

- A formal legal taxonomy: karāmah, istidrāj, and sorcery distinguished

- Imam Al-Ḥaddād رحمه الله's own definition of hidden shirk, and his own doctrine of karāmah as subordinate to, never equal to, Prophetic proof

X. Imam ʿAbdullāh ibn ʿAlawī al-Ḥaddād رحمه الله (1044–1132H): The Tradition's Central Later Figure

XI. The Global Spread of Islam Through the Bā ʿAlawī Sāda: India, East Africa, and the Malay World

- The tradition's own account of its spread, in its own words

XII. Islam in Southern Africa: Shaykh Yūsuf al-Makassarī, Tuan Guru, and the Cape Karamat Tradition

- The two founding figures
- The contested question of Bā ʿAlawī ancestry and discipleship
- What is firmly documented: the Alawiyyah order's Cape footprint

XIII. The Rātib al-Ḥaddād: A Living Legacy, in Full

XIV. The Living Tradition: Contemporary Bā ʿAlawī Teaching in Its Own Words

- Ḥabīb ʿUmar bin Ḥafīẓ's own books talks and lectures
- Ḥabīb ʿUmar bin Ḥafīẓ on takfīr, karāmāt, and religious extremism: Mamlakat al-Qalb wa'l-Aʿḍāʾ ("The Kingdom of the Heart and the Limbs")

XV. The Institutional Present: Ribāṭ Tarīm and Dār al-Muṣṭafā

XVI. Conclusion

Read online: https://mahwa-al-rusum.github.io/a/2026-10-21-ba-alawi-sada-part-1-contents/